"None of our problems is insoluble. The question is whether we as individuals, with a high sense of spiritual value, can keep abreast of technology, control it, and use it for humanity."

—Najeeb Halaby (1969)

"To preserve the moral and spiritual values of democratic institutions and at the same time to be able to govern this new technological society effectively is a problem which will haunt us for a long time to come."

—Walter Lippman (1967)

"When people of goodwill work together for a cause they hold dear, and if they have the strength to live with uncertainty, there is hardly any obstacle that cannot be overcome."

—Willy Brandt (1963)

"This generation has the responsibility for deciding whether the human race is to prosper or decline, whether our conduct will lead to a beginning or an end. . . . It is the crisis of the human race."

—Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan (1958)

"The last 30 years have taught us hatred of tyranny. No longer to dare to speak, to write, to think—is no longer to live. One might as well die fighting for freedom."

—Andre Maurois (1953)

"Keep an engine clean and it's a better engine. Keep a mind clean and it's a clearer mind. There is a lot to that old Biblical statement that cleanliness is next to godliness; it is next to prosperity also."

—Henry Ford (1947)

"Do not deceive yourself: the world is not going to be a new world; you will have to put up with the old one with occasional Spring cleanings."

—George Bernard Shaw (1945)
